

Artist Statement

My paintings can be called portraits of landscapes.

It's all about itself, it doesn't follow any story or narrative but it creates its own truth. Colour lines and forms are always around us all the time. Some forms we have within us.

Those forms are not similar to the shapes we look at in our daily life. The forms in my paintings are being created by my inner being.

Art is also a therapy which makes us calm and takes us into a different world of our imagination and dreams. I love to call myself a silent poet of colours and textures. I communicate and leave my viewer free to evoke their own meaning and interpretation. My paintings in new abstract art trends combines the visual and the spiritual in exiting significant ways. My paintings do not lead you away from your world instead they excavate the other world.
